

SPONSORSHIP Opportunities

The Fifth International Congress on Planted Forests will be the opportunity to review and discuss challenges and opportunities in harnessing the potential of planted forests to meet growing human needs, restore forest ecosystems, and mitigate climate change.

For the first time the Congress will be in Africa, previous conferences have been in Chile, New Zealand, Portugal, and China. They are truly global in reach and have attracted top forestry minds from across the world.

The Congress has six sessions:

- Plantations in new business models: investing into wood production, restoring ecosystem services and enhancing livelihoods
- Societal perception of plantations and governance
- Planted forests and trees, a critical option for ecosystem restoration
- Planted forests in a decarbonized bioeconomy
- Planted forests facing global change: risks and opportunities
- Optimizing trade-offs across ecosystem services: towards new models of management.
